Foreword

To many the 1924 G. W. Esque is the last impression they will have of Genesee Wesleyan Seminary. To all it will be a souvenir of ever increasing joy of the days spent here. Therefore it has been our constant endeavor to give in this volume only those experiences and activities of the past year which may be most pleasantly recalled.

We have not striven for personal prestige or to add to the honor of any one class. We have worked, and worked hard, to make this book a success. Had the financial resources been available a more complete and attractive book would have been possible. Next year we hope to see a bigger and better G. W. Esque.

But with this volume, may we send this hope to you who are going out from the school: When you turn these pages may your mind and heart go back to your Alma Mater, and may this G. W. Esque serve to remind you to love, honor, and support the school as a true Genesee Wesleyan.

Class History

"Life is a challenge," are the opening words of one of Edgar Allen Guest's poems, and this the Seniors of '24 of old G. W. S. have found true in their past school days.

In our junior year we found the roads to success not easy, but when, on April 19, 1923, we were assigned our places immediately behind the seniors in the chapel, we felt the fight had been worth while. We had been looking forward to this day for the past two years, and at last it had come. We were few in number yet strong in "pep" and enthusiasm. We elected Ralph Webb as our president; chose as our motto, "Ascendi etsi aspera saxa;" our colors, blue and gold; our flower, the yellow rose.

Excitement was high between the Juniors and Seniors, both wanted to fight. Dr. MacDaniel, however, wished us to come to terms, and drew up an agreement for each class to sign. This was in brief that there should be no class fights and that friendly contests of some sort should take their places. Both classes signed this agreement and buried the hatchet, and became the best of friends for the Junior and Senior picnic. This event crowned our year as Juniors with happiness for, though it rained all day, it did not dampen our spirits and everyone had a good time. So our Junior year of '23 came to a close.

"We cannot go far until we learn that we live in a world we must master and a world we must serve." As we pass from the Junior class to the Senior class we realize this more fully. The road of true honor and dignity came into view on March 2, 1924, when fifty classified Seniors of Genesee Wesleyan Seminary met in chapel for the purpose of organization.

The members of this body had not forgotten how their president had led them through the dangers of their Junior year, and how as captain of the Soccer team he had many times led the team to victory. This gave the whole body confidence in him and they immediately re-elected Ralph Webb president of the Senior class. Our old motto seemed to us most fitting for our final year, and we retained it, together with the colors, blue and gold.

"Climb though the rocks be rugged." This slogan was to guide us through and the climb so far has been successful. Feeling the dignity and the importance of our position, we sent a committee to our esteemed President of the school asking for privileges. He was very liberal in granting them, on the condition that there be no inter-class skirmishes. This we agreed to and on April 17, 1924, we celebrated one of the happiest occasions in our school life, "Moving Up Day." On that day we, the honored Seniors of G. W. S., took our places in the section reserved for those so recognized for years past.

Professor Edgett, the professor that every Senior admires, in one of his most inspirational talks greeted us on behalf of the faculty. "Chawlie" MacDonald, the little Junior president from Brooklyn, congratulated us on behalf of the Junior class with his usual wit and humor. In response to these, our Josephine Mead, with her never-failing ability, pictured to the Juniors what it was to be a Senior and kindly thanked the President and members of the faculty for their interest, and co-operation. She also brought some good advice to the Juniors: "STUDY HARD AND BEHAVE YOURSELF." Next each class gave its yells and then we were given the remainder of the morning to ourselves.

As we Seniors left Old College Hall that morning we felt as if we had come to another turning on the highway of life. Down the path ahead arose the word "Responsibility," and beyond that "Success." To conquer the one would bring the other, and each of us had a renewed purpose to "Win."

From "Moving Up Day" we have pressed onward nearer and nearer to our Commencement. In the meantime we shall enjoy our privileges and finally, some bright day in June, we shall meet with our Junior class-mates in the annual picnic at Conesus Lake.

Commencement means the beginning. On that day of days we take our first great step out into the world of experience. On its threshold we shall pause to look back over the period of preparation, and ahead to the future and what it holds.

We will not forget Dr. MacDaniel and the fight he is putting up to increase the power of the old Seminary. We will not forget the old school and all that it has meant to us. We shall make new friends and yet, in our hearts, we shall cherish those we had at the old Seminary.

With the words of Guest again, may we leave this parting thought:

"Who guards his post, no matter where,
Believing God must need him there,
Although but lowly toil it be,
Has risen to nobility."

—"Al" Bishop.

Age of Prophecy

Civilization has always had its ideals of what society and government should be and at last these are being realized in the Republic of Utopia. This state has an ideal situation, climate and topography. With these wonderful conditions prevailing even the most hardened pessimist is satisfied.

It had been generally conceded that the class of 1924 was the greatest ever graduated from Genesee Wesleyan Seminary, and it was no surprise, therefore, when the Hague Tribunal chose this illustrious group to demonstrate to the world how the government of an ideal state should be successfully conducted.

It is now twenty-five years since the founding of this Republic. Year after year its statecraft has increased in power and efficiency as women have succeeded men in places of trust.

In the presidential election of 1946, Olive Perrigo was elected to the exalted position of President, defeating Orlando Fioritta, "a Modern Demosthenes." Throughout a long and hard fought campaign Maurice Hale endeavored to show the disastrous results of woman's rule, but in the end he suffered defeat for the vice-presidency by the election of Alice Maltby. In the same election George Lyman Fisher was elected President of the Street Cleaner's Union and is ably filling his position by using C. Green's "Non-Skid Wonder Cleaner."

The treasury of this country could be in no better condition. No tax is ever imposed on such necessities of life as cosmetics and hair groom. Arlene Markham, former girls' treasurer of that famous class, was chosen to manage the many billions of dollars as Secretary of Treasury.

There is never any thought of war in this state and the one that helped to bring this about, as well as in other countries, is none other than Ralph Webb, Ambassador of Peace.

Utopia has an unusual mail service. There is a special free delivery which enables anyone to receive his mail from the hands of "special carriers" at any hour of the twenty-four. Albert Bishop, a man of years of experience, saw the need of such a system and through his influence it was instituted and now he is Postmaster General.

The students of Utopia can speak foreign languages as fluently as they do the native tongue. This is due to the Commissioner of Education, Herbert Beers. With the aid of his worthy teachers he has organized the system of education with such efficiency and has established such high scholastic standards that it leads the world. The valuable and popular major course at the present time is aesthetic and ballroom dancing. The head of this department is Pearl Wildermuth. The professors of the minor courses are as follows: Charles Messenger, D. D., professor of Science; Milton Carter, M. D., professor of Psychology; Ruth Hopkins, R. N., head of the Elocution department; Arlene MacNall, Ph. D., head of the Vocal department.

The transportation facilities throughout this state cannot be excelled. There is sharp competition between the Railroad Company and the Airplane Service, but today it is costing slightly more to travel by rail than by air. Ralph Hafford is president of the Railroad Company; Everett Brownell, of the Airplane Service.

Since the inhabitants of Utopia are so well educated and broad minded, they demand the very best dramatic art. One of the most important engagements of the spring season was a tragedy, "Absence Makes the Heart Grow Fonder," presented by Leslie Langworthy in association with the author, Pauline Bowen. The popular star, "Joie" Mead, and the leading man, "Harry" Bownell, are gaining world renown in their artistic interpretation of this heart-rending masterpiece.

Utopia has procured the biggest minstrel company in vaudeville for the world. It is called Patsy DeMuro's Superior Minstrels. There are clever men and character comedians in this troupe, and such vocalists as John DeVincentis and Gilbert Fenton.

The vices of the world cannot be entirely eliminated even from the ideal state. The only case of lawlessness, however, in ten years is now on trial. A decision of Chief Justice Lum will be rendered in a few days in the case of Robert Fairchild, on the charge of assaulting with intent to "suspend indefinitely" Thelma Knight's "junior" Butler. Alta Hare is the expert Court stenographer, whose services are in demand a very little.

Two successful artists of the state, known on the stage as "Joy B" and "Bob B," have been touring the world for twenty years taking with them their "Portable Steinway."

All the Domestic Science and Agricultural work of the state is under the control of the government. "Skeet" Austin issues bulletins concerning "The art of Domestic Science," covering such topics as "The ingredients of hash," and "The benefit received from diluting water with rich milk." Cloise Swearinger, the Horticulturist, is at the head of the State Farm Bureau.

Utopia has done her part in sending out missionaries to foreign fields. "Liz" Acker, located in No Man's Land, is the one most heard of at the present time.

Harriet Remington became a famous author. Her latest book, "Why You Can't Swim in a Pool Room," has just been published and has been accepted enthusiastically by the public.

One of the most extraordinary philanthropic enterprises in the state is a general hospital for broken tennis rackets. Grace Almstead is at the head of this great work.

Senator Urmy has recently proposed to the Senate the following bill: That all gum chewing should be abolished in Utopia. This bill was debated at length in the Congressional Halls. Senator Stuart Jones, leader of the opposition, declared vehemently that his constituents demanded the liberty to chew what they pleased. The bill was lost.

In this state it has been found that saurkraut is exceedingly beneficial on account of its richness in vitamins. Carola Vrooman manufactures large quantities of it in her own factory with the assistance of her chemist, Dorothy Robb.

Florence Posson, who is at the head of the Weather Bureau, predicts rain every day, yet, true to the usual Utopian weather, sunshine prevails.

One of the most convincing speakers of the Republic is the Evangelist Helen MacIntosh.

Ethel Ackerson is Utopia's representative to France.

The leader of the Woman's National Temperance Union is Aleta Crist and her forceful words, "No more Beers and light wines," are broadcasted from border to border throughout the state.

The greatest mechanical wonder of the age is James Kershaw. He has succeeded in inventing a perpetual motion machine, which is used in the patented hair pin removers.

Among the most famous men of the state is Shepard Quinby, the official physician. His success is unparalleled for the Utopians are never ill.

The capable nurse, who assists him in furthering his success, is Annie Boulton.

The secretary to the president is none other than Winifred Kemp.

From a solid block of Carrara marble Genevieve Disparti has chiseled a group of life-sized figures, the G. W. S. class of 1924, a masterpiece called "Optimes Animi." This stands in a special Memorial building at Washington, D. C. Everyone looks forward to the day when he may gaze upon this work of art and pay homage to men and women who have done so much for the advancement of civilization.

"Au Revoir"

Farewell! 'tis time that leave we must
The nest wherein we learned to fly,
And with our now-strong wings we trust
To swiftly soar aloft on high.
Farewell, dear Lima! This we say
Ere we wing our upward way.

Dear Lima, thou the gods have blest;
Nature with a loving care
Took thee to her heart and breast,
Lavished on thee gifts so fair
That made a lovely spot of thee.
A queen upon a hill green-clad,
Guarded round by many a tree,
The noblest guard queen ever had.
And nature filled thy trees with birds,
That sing thy praise with gladsome words.

We love thy vine-clad buildings fair,
Whose vines are twined each heart around;
We love thy classic buildings where
Elusive knowledge can be found.
Dear to us thy campus green,
Dearer still thy woodland scene.
Alma Mater! dearest to us grown,
Ne'er forgotten will thy memory be;
Before our eyes thy light has ever shone,
Till now with clearer sight we see
The goal that glitters from afar
That is our gleaming beckoning star.

Dear School! wherein we've searched for truth
That thou to us could give,
Thy spirit has inspired our youth
And taught us how to live.
Tho far above the clouds we fly,
Still we'll hear thy spirit cry,
"Soar on! press on! the goal is nigh!"

Class Will

Under-classmates, I have called you together to impart sad news. The class of 1924, having suffered four years from over-study and lack of discipline, has been doomed to die on June the 25th.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

We, the Class of 1924, of Genesee Wesleyan Seminary, in the Town of Lima, County of Livingston and State of New York, being of sound mind and memory do make, publish and declare this, our Last Will and Testament.

First—We bequeath to the Junior Class as a whole the Seminary buildings and the Seminary hill, and to Charles MacDonald, the most worthy president of the class, for himself, just a little Noel.

Second—To Ruth Moeller, the right to become a Shephardess.

Third—To Lucile Thompson, Elma's dignity.

Fourth—To Margaret Edwards, the right to change her mind and then to reconsider.

Fifth—To Charles Eaton, somebody's books to carry.

Sixth—To John Butler, "the end of a perfect day," because then comes Knight.

Seventh—To Frances Webb, the right to introduce her masterpiece, "The advantages and disadvantages of being a privileged character."

Eighth—To Howard Steyaart, the ability to make people think he is serious.

Ninth—To Marjory Ramsey, the right to sneeze six times as usual.

Tenth—To Helen Stackhouse, someone to Carter around.

Eleventh—To Vance Dean, a Gay time once in a while (when Jimmy isn't around).

Twelfth—To Merrill Gates, the right to feel above people.

Thirteenth—To Phyllis Keyes, the privilege of engaging a Messenger for the summer rush.

Fourteenth—To Robert Gribbroek, the great responsibility of carrying on alone the work of the great reformers—Gribbroek, Jones and Urmy.

Fifteenth—To Horace Wadsley, a course in Domestic Science.

Sixteenth—To Stanley Hagan, the right to become a baseball star.

Seventeenth—To Josephine Faust, sole ownership of the Seminary Mills.

Eighteenth—To Ethel Gray, the right to act upon the famous words of "Skeet" Austin, "If I only lived down-town, I'd——."

Nineteenth—To Anzo Lyman, the privilege of breaking one rule before graduating.

Twentieth—To Ernest Curto, the guardianship of the next Faling Hall mascot.

Twenty-first—To Mrs. Katherine Waltz, permission to demonstrate home cooking for the benefit of Main Building boys.

Twenty-second—To Frank Purdy, permission to prove that "variety is the spice of life."

Twenty-third—To Cornelius Jones, the right to prove that "a bluff a day leads the teacher astray."

Twenty-fourth—To Earl Magin, "Dont's for Seminaryites," complete in four volumes.

Twenty-fifth—To Anthony Greeley, all night lights for the purpose of reading novels.

Twenty-sixth—To Leon Northrup, supervision of the regular Friday night dances.

Twenty-seventh—To Milton Butler, the honor of being the first one of the class of 1925 to occupy an exalted position by the organ.

We whose names are hereto subscribed do certify that on the 25th day of June, 1924, the testators subscribed their names to this instrument in our presence and hearing and declared the same to be their last will and testament.

Witness—M. M. HALL.

Witness—D. S. MACNALL.

Junior Class History

At noon on that bright day of April 14, 1924, Doctor MacDaniel called together a small group of select young people and announced that they were JUNIORS. After supper on that same evening we organized, electing Charles MacDonald as President of our noble band. A Junior committee of six was appointed to meet the Senior committee that night in Doctor MacDaniel's parlor. The committees decided that the two classes should not have any battles while the President of the Seminary was away.

The next morning the "dignified" Seniors realized that the JUNIORS were alive and had organized, for after chapel the cry of the Juniors reverberated through the hall and classrooms of College Hall as we shouted our first yell:

J-U-N-I-O-R-S! J-U-N-I-O-R-S! J-U-N-I-O-R-S!
JUNIORS! JUNIORS! '25! '25! '25!

Then the night before "Moving-Up-Day" came, when the big question had to be decided, "Shall we fight or shall we sign the agreements?" was the cry of the two classes. The boys, being naturally of a fighting spirit, did not want to sign the agreements. The girls, however, wanted their privileges and did not care to see their gentlemen classmates engaged in a "young war."

We were told if the agreements were not signed that night there would be no Senior privileges or any "Moving-Up-Day." But the determined boys still wanted to fight. Finally, the majority of the members of the respective committees decided that neither class would gain anything by quarreling. After much hesitation on the part of the Seniors, the agreements were signed simultaneously. The "war" was off!

The following day, April 17th, the Seniors and Juniors were given their places of honor in chapel at the "Moving-Up-Day" exercises. The Junior President, Charles MacDonald, took part in the program by greeting the Seniors and complimenting them upon reaching the last lap of their journey through the Genesee Wesleyan Seminary.

A few days later we chose our class motto, "NOT HOW MUCH, BUT HOW WELL," and our class flower, the tea rose. It will not be long now before the "dark blue and orange" ribbons will be worn by the worthy Juniors.

As it has been less than a month since the Junior Class organized, our history is short, but before the end of the year it is likely to be interesting, especially to the large and over-proud group of human beings known as Seniors, who walk up and down the campus. We are looking forward to some contests which the Seniors seemed anxious to have, and to the Senior-Junior Picnic, when we expect to have a wonderful time. Although we shall have little time to distinguish ourselves as Juniors, it is our hope that we may next year become one of the finest Senior Classes that Genesee Wesleyan Seminary has ever produced.

Senior schoolmates, although we talk about you in an uncomplimentary way sometimes, we love you just the same. And now, as you leave this old school you cherish and enter into the larger world, may you be more determined than ever to prove your worth by constant, steady application to the best things of life. "Give to the world the best you have, and the best will come back to you;" or, in the words of President Coolidge, "Study hard and behave yourselves." Thus do we express our hearty wishes to the Seniors and bid them fond farewell.

—Kathryn Waltz, '25.

The Unclassified

Like a river
Broad and blue,
With flecks of sun
A-shining,
Here and there
Upon the broad expanse
Of slowly moving water,
Winding its way
With cat-like smoothness
Between the banks of verdure
That keep it in its course,
Until at last
It widens
And, gathering speed and motion.
Tumbles itself into
A whirl of waves
And runs headlong
Into its Mother Ocean—

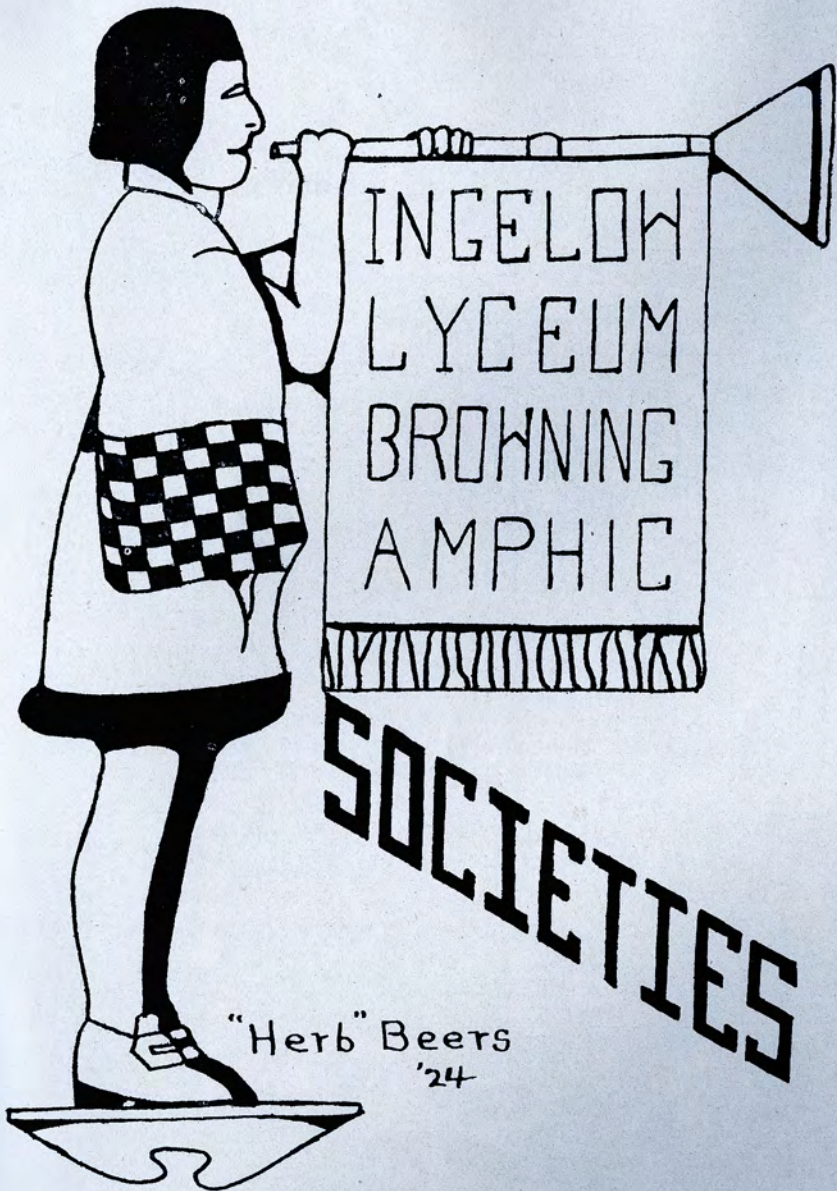

Just so do we,
A group of youths,
Float carelessly upon
The stream of life.
We have no Senior seats,
'Tis true, but then,
We do not have
The long, eternal struggle
That the Seniors have
To keep them.
We are content
With our few privileges
For these
By misdemeanors
Are not lost to us.

And so we glide along.
The sun of natural talent
Striking
Here and there
Upon our numbers
A glint,
A spark of brilliance,
The fledging of a genius,
Who can tell?

Slowly we move
Down the broad stream
Of happy carelessness,
Until at last
We, also, as the river,
Gather motion
And plunge headlong
Into the cares of grave Seniority.

Ingelow

The oak tree, the symbol of Ingelow, is remarkable for its durability, longevity and individuality. Like its symbol, Ingelow has endured the disturbances of this school family through its long life.

1924 found Ingelow sturdy and strong, with the alumnae reaching back through the years even to the first president. A letter was received by the society from her in which she expressed a deep and living interest in Ingelow, although she had celebrated her centennial birthday.

The reception to the faculty, new students and officers of Browning was the first event to show the splendid things the Ingelow girls could do. A few weeks later the new girls who wished to join Ingelow were initiated, both formally and informally.

A series of entertainments was held in College Hall under the auspices of the Ingelow and Browning societies in the first quarter. Ingelow received about fifty dollars from the sale of these tickets. It was decided to set this sum aside as a fund for a new rug for the society room.

The Ingelow-Lyceum societies held their joint banquet in the town hall, March 21. The banquet hall and reception room were tastefully decorated, the one in Lyceum colors, the other in those of Ingelow. No epicurean ever enjoyed finer food, finer music or finer toasts.

With Ethel Gray as cabinet president, Ingelow presented its annual public, April 11. The leading feature of the program was a comedy, "Polly Wants a Cracker," which proved very exciting and held the audience in suspense until the climax.

A few weeks later Ingelow and Lyceum met in the Lyceum room for a joint meeting. Robert Hemmings and Elizabeth Acker, senior piano students, played delightfully to the small but appreciative audience.

Year after year the great oak tree adds a little more to its strength and greatness. It always keeps what it has gained and stands firm where it first took root.

Ingelow is again true to her symbol and still stands firm for the principles on which it was founded.

Genesee Lyceum Society

Lyceum has as its motto, "Faith, Loyalty, Truth." These three words have been ever before us and have helped us thru one of our most successful years.

Our first meeting was the reception to the new students on September 28. It was an example of true Lyceum spirit. All the members did their best to make it a success. After a fine literary program, ice cream and cake were served. We feel sure it was a success for Lyceum gained many new and talented members.

In past years the Ingelow-Lyceum banquet has been held on the eve before Christmas vacation. This year we decided to be ourselves and do something different so we had our banquet just before spring recess on March 21. We had an excellent toastmaster in P. Willard Curry, a Rochester lawyer, who kept things going all the time. "Magie" gave one of her intimate greetings, which was followed by some exceedingly clever speeches. As we left the Town Hall that night we felt that the banquet could not have been more perfect.

The Ingelow-Lyceum joint meeting on April 26 promoted the good comradeship which has always existed between Lyceum and its sister society. After a splendid literary program in Lyceum Hall we adjourned to the association room where a luncheon was served.

The Lyceum Public will be held this year on June 20. It is an event to which we are all looking forward, for the Cabinet President has a fine program planned. For pep, originality, and versatility, we expect the old Lyceums to declare there were "none such" even in the good old times.

Lyceum has been well represented in athletics this year and we are proud of our members who wear the block "L."

Now, as the year closes, we are planning for a bigger and more successful year in 1924-1925. It seems impossible, but if we "study hard and behave ourselves" perhaps we may be able to do it.

History of the Good Ship "Browning"

In the fall of '23 the good ship Browning, in her fifty-second year, weighed anchor and set sail with her white and gold banners streaming in the wind and all on board singing joyously the good old "Zip, Za, Zee." Some on the ship were taking this voyage for the first time. To them it was a novel experience but, before the ship should return to its allotted harbor, there were to be friendships formed which would last on through the years.

In order that all on board might become better acquainted, a reception was given in the Salon. The presiding officer of this event was Miss Mead. All the passengers on board were delighted by her quiet dignity.

The reception was a mere preliminary to what was to follow. Preparations now began in earnest for the Public. This was to be even more interesting as certain of the passengers were to present the play, "All Robert's Fault," in two acts. The engrossing affair came and went in a whirl of excitement and under the ingenious hand of Miss McNall, the Public was a decided success.

Nor did the passengers in their leisure moments lack entertainment, for nightly, while reclining in steamer chairs on deck, all were delighted by strains of music issuing from the "Blake Compartments."

One dreamy day, when the ship was in mid-ocean, the attention of deck promenaders was attracted by the wierd sound of oriental tom-toms and tinkling cymbals. A bazaar was in full sway! The salon had been transformed into a place of mystery, with soft lights and silken draperies! Maidens flitted here and there serving the delighted passengers with food and their attention was arrested and held by the various attractions invented for the occasion by Miss Wildermuth!

When again the passengers emerged on deck they were filled with unutterable joy at the sight which greeted their eyes, for did they not recognize the golden crescent of the good ship Amphictyon, close beside them.

Night of all nights! This was to mark the crowning event of the voyage—"The Browning Amphictyon Banquet." Every detail had been carefully planned; the music, the flowers, the decorations formed a perfect setting for the smiling girls and attentive boys. Mr. Lewis M. Wilson, from the Rochester port, was master of ceremonies and filled his place of honor admirably.

As a passenger of the good ship Browning on this her latest voyage, I know that she has made a successful journey. Now she is anchored safely to her substantial dock, on which is inscribed in letters of gold, "No Cross, No Crown."

—Helen Stackhouse, '25.

Amphictyon

“Hurrah, hurrah, hurrah hic!
Hurrah now for old Amphic!”

This yell has many times echoed over the school campus this year to greet old members and to welcome new members into the society.

As all other school activities began early, so did Amphictyon start by holding its annual reception the night of October 14, '23. The guests of the evening were the new students, Lyceum members and the Faculty. A very interesting program was given, consisting of a few short speeches and musical numbers. Last, but not least, refreshments were served in a bountiful manner.

Following the Christmas holidays the thoughts and spirit of the society were centered on the Public, which was held February 16. The main feature of the literary program was a debate on the “Soldier Bonus” led by Adrian Woodworth, affirmative; Charles Saccomanno, negative. The play “Back Fire,” given in two acts, was handled well by the actors and actresses. Even Curto did good work.

Amphictyon-Browning banquet then drew the attention of the society. Under the direction of Ralph Webb the banquet as anticipated was a joyful success. The toastmaster, Louis M. Wilson, of Rochester, an old Amphic, gave interesting facts about the society as he knew it.

Amphictyon has started on its fourth quarter with the same “pep” that has characterized it throughout the years. Work will be centered upon debating.

The society room is going through a process of renovation; it is being enlarged in order to accommodate the increased membership. The room will be redecorated and refurnished. These improvements were started under the enthusiastic initiative of our Amphic brother, Dr. Arthur O. Sykes, who has contributed money as well as enthusiasm.

It is the purpose of the membership to maintain the high ideals of Amphictyon and to strengthen its influence so that its future history may be even better than its history of 1923-24.

—Everett Brownell, '24.

Y. W. C. A.

The purpose "To face life squarely," accompanied with the slogan, "To find and give the best," has been the power which has stimulated Girl Reserves' spirit during the past year. The organization has sought by upholding its triangular emblem of Health, Knowledge and Spirit, to maintain the true out-and-out Christian spirit of Genesee Wesleyan.

After a happy and successful reception of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. Girl Reserves to the entire school, the girls prepared a Children's Party in honor of the new girls. The weekly devotional meetings under the leadership of Miss Hall on practical discussions of girls' problems and Christian ideals have been so meaningful that every girl leaving Lima will unconsciously carry through her life many true, noble thoughts.

New features this year were the organization of an employment bureau through which over $30 has passed into the hands of the girls for helpful services; and the maintenance of a clothing box which has been contributed to the Salvation Army for their philanthropic work. The monthly birthday table with program is still provided for the school by the girls. Forty per cent of the dues have been designated to the parent organization in New York City and, after contributing toward an organ for Marie Nelsen, one of our former members who has gone under the Methodist Mission to Angola, Africa, a substantial sum still remains in the treasury for next year.

The influence of such an organization as this, living unconsciously in girls' lives, cannot be written on a page, but the influence of the Y. W. Girl Reserves has truly been written in Genesee Wesleyan girl life.

—Pearl C. Wildermuth, '24.

Young Men's Christian Association

The Young Men's Christian Association endeavors to aid the young men of the Seminary to attain the highest ideals of life. Every fellow is invited to all meetings and he is given the opportunity to become a member of the Association. Sixty-two enrolled as members this year. Excellent suggestions are given from time to time by different members on how to make the Association more helpful to the individual and more efficient as an organization.

A student committee was on hand to greet the old students and to welcome the students last September.

The reception the first Saturday night of the school year helped greatly in getting the students acquainted.

Several young men have been holding religious services at the North Bloomfield chapel every Sunday afternoon. This spring they have resumed the Sunday School which was discontinued through the winter months. A weekly prayer service has been conducted by the Association in one of the student's rooms every Thursday afternoon.

The following officers have been elected for the coming year: George Luce, president; Clifford Munn, vice-president; Charles MacDonald, treasurer; Vance Dean, secretary. They are taking charge of the Association the last quarter of this year.

—Leon Northrop, '24.

Class 14

"The Other Fellow" is our cry,
Shout it loud and raise it high,
That all the world may hear and know
Our purpose, as we onward go.

As we look back over the history of old G. W. S., we find a few outstanding events which mark the date of some special occasion. Among the most prominent of these events is the founding of Class 14, in 1902, by Miss Minnie Martha Hall. Adopting as its motto "The Other Fellow," the class has gone steadily onward until today there are nearly nine hundred enrolled within its ranks.

Class 14 is commonly known as the Bible class for young men, and so it is, but it seems much more than this to those who are loyal to the class. The inspirational and heart-to-heart talks given to the class by Miss Hall help us throughout the week to make the best of our opportunities, to live clean lives and to help the other fellow. Class 14 men always look back with loyalty and gratitude for what the class has done for them and what it means to them.

Several of the Class 14 men, who are now attending college, returned for the annual oyster supper which was given by the class on the nineteenth of December. Rev. Herbert Walton, pastor of the Honeoye Falls Methodist Church; Harold Potter, freshman at Wesleyan University, and Donald Possen, junior at Colgate University, were the speakers of the evening. A sum of money was presented to Miss Hall in appreciation of her great work.

The spring season brings with it many happy and anticipated events. The maple sugar party, which Miss Hall entertains the class with, is one of these pleasant occasions. As we looked around the tables we could see sixty-seven happy boys stirring the hot maple syrup. We all enjoyed the maple sugar, the songs and especially Miss Hall's talk on her recent trip to Washington.

In a few weeks many of us will be leaving our old Alma Mater, and so as we leave the class, let us take with us that worthy motto, "The Other Fellow," as a lasting memory of Class 14.

—Shepard Quinby, '24.

The Orchestra

The orchestra is one of the most valuable of the Seminary activities.

There are often found among the students those who are or wish to be good musicians. Noted teachers in the music world agree that the orchestra is the ideal place for a player to acquire technic and a fine sense of harmony. This theory is often proved by the rapid advancement of the Seminary orchestra. The orchestra always has a lot of beginners at the first of the year. By the end of the year they are beginners no longer but accomplished musicians.

The orchestra affords fine training for the amateur by playing before an audience. It plays at many of the school functions and takes an active part in all school activities. Programs are given on Moving-Up-Day and other special functions. It unites with the chorus in a joint concert during commencement week and has the honor of playing the commencement march for the dignified old Seniors.

The orchestra has made rapid progress this year under the careful direction of Miss Ruth Eaton, director of the violin department. The rehearsals have been well attended and have always been a source of great profit to the members.

At the request of organizations in nearby towns, the orchestra has made several trips to play at various occasions, and have often been rewarded by a fine supper afterwards.

The orchestra has been very fortunate this year in counting among its members several fine soloists, some of whom will return next year. Next year the orchestra will have a practice room in the new building which is being erected to accommodate the Music Department.

Every one of the sixteen members of this year's orchestra has thoroughly enjoyed the work of the organization and has profited very much by the expert instruction of Miss Eaton.

—Charles Eaton, '25.

Lowe Oratorical Contest

This contest is the literary feature of the Annual Commencement occasion. The contestants are Seniors of the literary courses who attain the highest grades in scholarship throughout the year. Oftentimes as many as fourteen members of the Senior class are eligible, but the eight highest participate. To be included in this number is considered the highest Senior honor. They write and deliver their original orations which are judged for subject matter, literary style and delivery.

When first originated it was called the "Ocumpaugh Declamation Contest." Later on Mr. Alexander M. Holden continued this contest. The winners of his prizes, $15 and $10 in gold, are as follows:

Year	First Prize	Second Prize
1907	Nathaniel Elton Butler	Elizabeth McSweeney
1908	Robert James Curry	Florence Lillian Roberts
1909	Bessie Ida Briggs	Frederic Lockwood Peacock
1910	G. Clifford Hackett	Georgia Clark
1911	America L. Archilla	Frank Percy Hunt
		Lillian A. Burnett
1912	Leslie Waterman Paine	Elmer Babel
1913	Mildred A. Paine	Walter Jay Beadle
1914	Hazel Victoria Dunn	Paul Swarthout
1915	Kenneth Barnard Keating	Carlyle Boynton
1916	Pearl Van Volkenburg	Dorothy May Humphrey
1917	C. Harold Harrison	Henry Arthur Simmons
1918	Ruby Miriam Lee	Howard Arthur Brettle
1919	Rosabel Harris	David Seaver Cook
1920	John T. Cameron	Hope C. Thompson

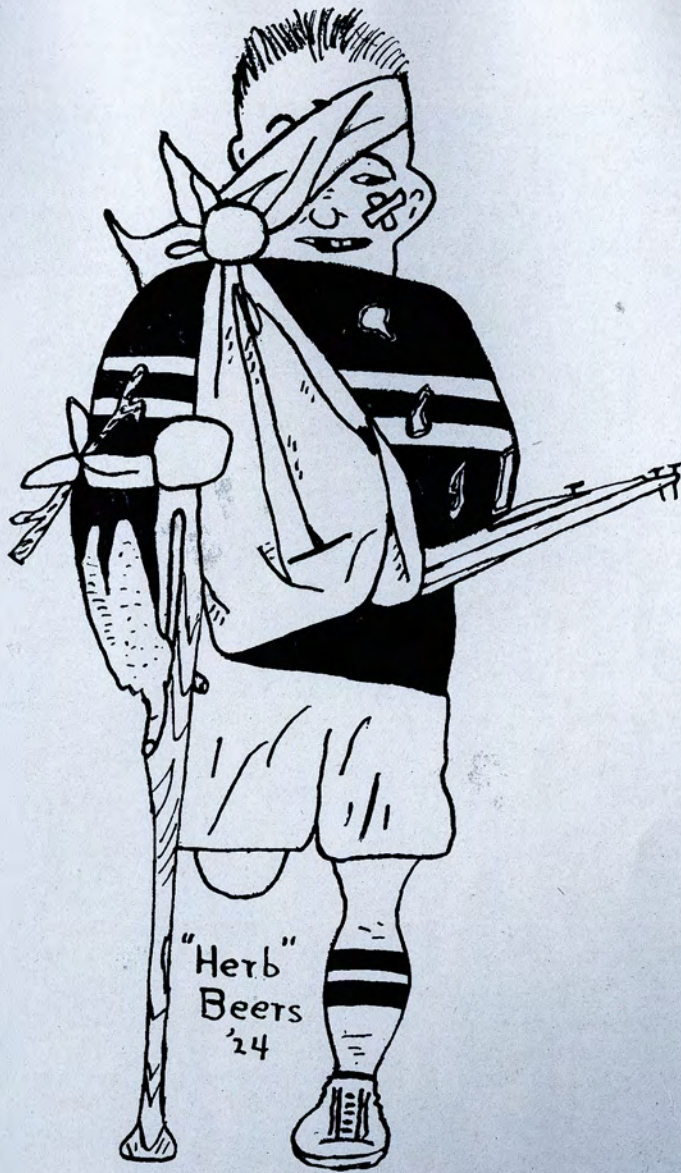

Since the death of Mr. Holden, Mrs. Samuel H. Lowe of Rochester has founded the Samuel H. Lowe Oratorical Contest. The winners of her prizes are as follows:

Year	First Prize	Second Prize
1921	Donald Wait Keyes	Julia Lorraine Potter
1922	Frances Cora Frink	Francis Henry Henderson
1923	Dennis Northrop	Elizabeth G. Palmer

At this Commencement time we will be no less proud of our Seniors, who have won through honest effort these honored places. The speakers for the class of '24 are:

James Kershaw	Josephine Mead
Maurice Hale	Olive Perrigo
Robert Fairchild	Cloise Swearingen
Orlando Fioritta	Pearl Wildermuth

ATHLETICS

Soccer

When school opened in September, the first thought of the students was that of Soccer. With five veterans back from the Champion team of '22—Beers, DeVincentes, Northrop, Bishop, and Captained by Ralph Webb—the boys started out with the old Lima fight to build up a team. Al Bishop, the All-scholastic goaley of the '22 team, suffered injuries and was out for several games but came back strong toward the end of the season.

The team had the brakes against them and, lacking the scoring machine of '22, Stafford and Crooker, they failed to put the ball through the poles enough to bring the cup back home. The cup went to East High to spend a short time but the Lima boys will be out with the opening of school this fall to bring it back.

The Letter men of 1923:

Boys' Basket Ball

The call came for basketball material after the closing of the soccer season. Al Bishop, the veteran of last year, was again elected Captain. With the experience of the years before he put the old fight in the men. The team had a very hard schedule and came out in the end by winning over half of the games. The team was all new with the exception of Captain Bishop and the guard, Vance Dean.

There came into camp a new man who answers to the call of "Abe" who immediately took the position of forward and filled it well. The season started out rather slow but the men soon became accustomed to working together and ended the season up by a win from the Alumni whose team consisted of former Captains of College teams. The Captain as yet has not been picked for next year but everybody is looking forward to next season.

The team:

Al Bishop, Captain
James Hanna, Manager
Horace Wadsley
Loper Keyes

Everett Brownell
Keith Urmy
Vance Dean
Howard Styart.

The Girls' Basket Ball Team

The Girls' Basketball team came out with a bang. Though only two veterans were back they found some stalwart material. "Flossie" Posson returned to take her place as forward in the first line-up. Then, much to the surprise of everyone, our town girl "Kittie" Klitgord came to fill the other forward's position.

"Wasp" Wasasier, our peppy center, was elected temporary captain for the season. Next in line came "Bob" Hewitt, strong and steady and a very good guard, while following her was her worthy partner "Gay" Almstead, who was filled with the "old fight" from the first pistol shot.

In our line of "subs" was "Carrie" Lum, a very quick and energetic forward, and Naomi Shaddock, another town girl, full of zeal and pep.

For two years "Paul" Bowen has played faithfully and loyally for our team. Although she will not be back she takes with her two "L's" and the very best wishes of the team. "Remie" was our mascot this year and, because of her everlasting courage and loyalty, she kept the girls' spirits from falling.

This year numerals were given to all the girls who came out and gave their undivided attention to helping the girls' team. Here's hoping these same girls will do their best next year to make the first team. These girls included: Sara Stuble, Lucy Harling, Anzo Lyman, Margaret Short, Margaret Palmer and Doris Bullock.

Of the total of nine games played, five were credited on the won column.

With "Bob" Hewitt as captain for next year the girls' team wish the girls of '24-'25 the very best success possible.

—Pauline M. Bowen, '24.

The Girls' Athletic Activities

"Early to bed, early to rise,
Makes one healthy and wealthy and wise."

We may say that here at the Seminary one is made healthy. As to the wealth, it cannot be proven, unless that "early to bed and early to rise" prepares for a wealthy future. But it certainly makes some of us wise. Some wanted to become so healthy that they arose very early a few mornings and ran races around the track.

At the very beginning of school the tennis courts were filled with many on the side-lines waiting their turn.

In November came our basketball coach and the call was issued for candidates to represent "Old Lima." A very successful season was enjoyed by the squad.

During the early fall there were several hikes under the direction of our physical instructress, Miss Cole.

The tennis courts have been repaired for the spring tournaments. There are good prospects along the tennis battle-line.

Plans are under way for a girls' track meet and a series of baseball games.

Many thanks are due Dr. MacDaniel for providing athletic directors under whose direction the girls have had an unusually successful year in athletic activities.

—Pauline M. Bowen, '24.

Base Ball

The Baseball season is well on its way and Lima is in the new Rochester and Vicinity Baseball League. Harry Brownell has been elected captain of this year's squad, which is the most promising one that Lima has had for some time. Stanley Hagen has taken the mound and Horace Wadsley has taken Budd's place behind the bat, which proves to be a winning combination.

Lima dropped their first two games, lacking the proper coaching, but through the efforts of Doctor MacDaniel, a baseball coach was secured, M. A. Steggerda, from the Rochester International team. Coach Steggerda has done wonders with the team and the fellows have shown him the true Lima spirit for work.

The team has started by winning their third game and are looking forward to getting the cup although they have several stiff games to be played with Rochester teams.

The team :

Harry Brownell, Captain
Chas. Messenger, Manager
Horace Wadsley
Stanley Hagen
Wallace Blin
Herbert Beers
Loper Keyes
Marshal Case

Roger Raymonds
Vance Dean
Milton Carter
Stuart Jones
Donald Stokie
William Draper
Colby Carpenter

Track

Lima has ventured forth with their luck in building up a track team this year for the first time since the war. The material certainly looks promising and the boys have shown their willingness to co-operate with the Coach in this work. Everett Brownell has been elected Captain of this team and Keith Urmey, Manager. The team has many meets scheduled for this season. Among them is the annual track meet at Alfred University and several dual meets with Rochester teams.

A MESSAGE TO YOUNG MEN!

Nothing is so great a factor in success, at the start, as a well-dressed, well-groomed appearance. It commands respect, inspires confidence and suggests ability. But they must be strictly young men's clothes and not older men's models in younger men's measurements.

Dressing ahead of your years is no way to get ahead in your youth.
